

Tentative agreement on debates reached

First debate: possibly third week of September

By CHRIS CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

Jimmy Carter said today he would not object to minor party presidential candidates participating in his series of debates with President Ford. But he said such participation "would ruin the debate format."

Carter, interviewed on NBC's "Today" show, said that a tentative agreement has been reached between his and Ford's representatives on a format of three debates between the candidates, each lasting 75 minutes. He said later that the tentative agreement called for the first debate in the third week in September, patterned primarily after a proposal put forth by the League of Women Voters.

He said that participation by candidates such as Lester Maddox of the American Independent party would make the debates "more like a forum."

Ford and Carter got in some informal argument over the weekend, as the Democratic presidential candidate said that Ford's proposal to spend $1.5 billion to double the size of the nation's parks, recreation areas and wildlife refuges was a "calculated election year flip-flop."

Ford, responding to Carter's jibe, told reporters later Sunday, "He's the biggest flip-flopper I know of."

The exchange was one of the few political sparks to fly over the weekend as the candidates prepared to move their campaigns into high gear after the Labor Day holiday, the race's traditional start.

Both Ford and his running mate, Sen. Bob Dole, were back in Washington today. Carter was going to Atlanta to meet with advisers and make some speeches. Sen. Walter F. Mondale, his running mate, was in California in the middle of a nine-day, 7,500-mile campaign swing.

Ford unveiled his parks plan in a speech Sunday at Old Faithful geyser in Yellowstone National Park, Wyo., where he stopped on his way home to the White House after a nine-day vacation in Vail, Colo.

Ford, who worked in Yellowstone as a ranger in the summer of 1936, called for doubling the 63.2 million acres of federal parklands and refuges over the next decade as a Bicentennial gift to future generations of Americans.

His 15-minute speech to several thousand persons was interrupted, as planned, by a timely eruption of the geyser.

Later, there was another kind of eruption in Plains, Ga., where Carter issued a statement criticizing Ford for the "well-staged showcase visit" to Yellowstone.

"The belated campaign promise of additional funds comes in the face of two years of administration opposition to both increased matching funds for state and local park programs and desperately needed operational funds for the Park Service," the Democratic presidential candidate said. "It can only be seen as an attempt to cover up eight years of Republican mismanagement of our nation's park system."

Ford said to obtain money for the parks project, his administration might have to "trim some waste and tighten our belts elsewhere," but he did not specify what cutbacks he had in mind.

In Washington, an environmental group called the Environmental Policy Center said it was "delighted to see President Ford finally taking an interest in the nation's environmental problems."

But the organization claimed that it was "the height of hypocrisy" for Ford to propose a major parks program as the 94th Congress nears adjournment "without addressing the politically important natural resources bill which Congress is considering."

Ford said he would submit his parks plan on Tuesday to Congress, which plans to adjourn in early October. Congressional leaders already have said they lack the time to deal with several major pending pieces of legislation before the session ends.

Ford said last week that recreation would be one of seven key issues he will campaign on. The others were housing, jobs, health care, crime, education and peace.

Carter's caustic response to the recreation proposal was foreshadowed by Mondale, who said on Saturday that the seven issues were areas in which Republican administrations have failed.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rampant fraud and abuse was discovered by Senate investigators among providers of health services in the Medicaid program, according to a report on an eight-month probe in five states.

Pomona man drowns in S.D. Dam

A Pomona man drowned in San Dimas Canyon Dam Sunday while attempting to swim across the small lake with several other Pomonans, sheriff's deputies said.

The victim, Manuel Vazquez, 21, attempted to follow Daniel Diaz Telles, 25, and Amado Solis Figueroa, 21, across the lake but after swimming about 250 feet he began calling for help.

Figueroa and Telles said they tried to support Vazquez, but he slipped from their grasp and they could not locate him.

Sheriff's scuba divers later located Vazquez' body in about 25 feet of water at the point where his companions had last seen him. The victim lived at 2354 S. Park Ave.

Deputies said they were told that the three had driven to the southern side of the lake and climbed down a hillside to reach the edge. Then, deputies said, they drank beer before deciding to swim to the northern side of the lake about 4 p.m.

Deputies said the lake is posted for no swimming.

equivalent degree of error and maladministration by (federal and state) government agencies," said the report Sunday by the Senate Special Committee on Aging.

Posing as Medicaid recipients, investigators from the committee and two Capitol policemen — all certified as healthy by the Capitol physician — made more than 200 visits to 100 "Medicaid mills," described as storefront clinics.

These clinics receive 75 per cent of the $3 billion paid to doctors, dentists, labs and pharmacies by Medicaid, the committee staff estimated. They are responsible for most of the fraud in the 10-year old program, the staff said.

The staff estimated that in New York State, which accounts for one of every four Medicaid dollars, $444 million is lost through Medicaid fraud. Of that, almost $30 million is lost in financially troubled New York City, it said.

"If the city had taken reasonable and prudent steps, repeatedly suggested over the last 10 years, against fraud and abuse found in the Medicaid system, (the city's) fiscal crisis could have been avoided," the report said.

The five states investigators focused on account for more than half of the nation's $15-billion-a-year bill for Medicaid, the federal-state program to provide health care to the poor, it said.

They are New York, California, New Jersey, Michigan and Illinois. The investigation concentrated on New York City, Chicago, Detroit, Los Angeles, Oakland, Newark, Pasaic and Paterson, N.J.

Valley's hot spell expected to stay through Tuesday

The valley's worst heat wave of the year — a sizzler that topped out at 104 degrees in Pomona Sunday — is expected to continue at least through Tuesday.

Sunday's high reading established a record for an Aug. 29, soaring past the former high of 101.3 set in 1972, but the weatherman says the worst is yet to come.

He predicts a high of 106 both for today and for Tuesday in Pomona and up to 112 in Ontario, where the mercury hit 111 Sunday.

The predictions also call for occasional cloudiness with some isolated thundershowers in the mountains, possibly spilling into the valley.

The heat wave is general throughout the Southland with the only relief within sight of the ocean. But the National Weather Service has issued an advisory to those who want to go swimming there that the waters will be quite choppy today and Tuesday.

According to the report, Hurricane

Iva, about 1,200 miles south of the beaches, is generating swells that will cause six to eight foot breakers both days, particularly in areas that face the south.

Moderate to heavy smog both days will add to the discomfort of the heat in the valley. Air Pollution Control districts both in Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties have issued first stage health episodes for the entire area.

The heat wave apparently is concentrated in the Southland. It was 112 degrees in Van Nuys, the hottest in the nation, followed by Ontario with 111, and Whittier and Glendora with 110. It was 106 in San Bernardino, 110 in Barstow, 107 in Hollywood, and 94 in Los Angeles.

Final okay should be in Sept.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate and House conferees today agreed to extend through all of 1977 the individual tax cuts enacted last year.

The tax cuts are worth $180 a year to a typical family of four earning $15,000 annually; $182 for a single person earning $8,000; $204 for a couple making $10,000, and $445 for a family of four earning $6,000.

The conferees approved the tax-cut extension as they continued work on a big catch-all tax-revision bill.

When the conferees complete ironing out differences between Senate and House tax bills, a compromise version which includes the individual tax-cut provision will go to the Senate and House for final consideration, probably next month.

The conferees also agreed to make permanent the increases in the minimum and maximum standard deductions, which are taken by persons who do not itemize deductions.

The minimum standard deduction is $1,700 for single persons and $2,100 for joint returns. The maximum is 16 per cent, up to $2,400 for single persons and $2,800 for couples filing joint returns.

The $15-billion-a-year in individual tax cuts, along with a series of across-the-board reductions for business, were written into the law early last year in an effort to fight the recession. The basic part of the package was later extended through July 1, 1976.

Technically, the individual tax cuts have expired. But in order to protect workers against any cut in take-home pay, Congress has frozen payroll-withholding rates through Sept. 1.

Because final action on the tax bill still is weeks away, Congress is expected to pass emergency legislation before Wednesday to extend the withholding-rate freeze for another month, or perhaps longer.

Here are the major provisions of the individual tax-cut package:

—Every taxpayer is allowed to subtract from taxes owed $35 for himself and each of his dependents. Of, if it is more beneficial, the taxpayer may subtract from taxes 2 percent of his first $9,000 of taxable income, meaning a total tax credit of $180.

This provision would be extended through Dec. 31, 1977.

—Permanent extension of the increases in the minimum and maximum standard deductions.

—To be extended through Dec. 31, 1977, is a 10 per cent tax credit designed to reward poor, working families for staying off welfare.

Under this "work bonus" a family with children and earning $4,000 a year could subtract from taxes owed $400. The credit phases down and disappears when income reaches $8,000 a year.

The credit is refundable, meaning that if a family does not earn enough to owe taxes, the government will send out a check for up to $400 a year.

The Senate had voted to make this work bonus permanent, but backed down at the insistence of Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House conferees.

Watering lawn, washing car could cost $50

By The Associated Press

A lack of rainfall in several parts of the nation has resulted in forest and grassland fires, rising farm costs, and $50 fines for watering lawns.

In Raleigh, N.C., where just half the normal amount of rain has fallen since April, a person caught watering a lawn or washing a car can be fined $50. Officials say that if the drought worsens, a state university campus in nearby Chapel Hill may be closed. Ice machines, washing machines and air conditioners have been turned off or strictly controlled.

Nebraska's usually-dependable farmland has been parched by the driest August on record. Nearby areas of Iowa, Minnesota and South Dakota are also suffering.

Forty counties in Nebraska have been declared drought disaster areas by Gov. J.J. Exon, who says crop losses have reached $400 million and irrigation costs have gone up sharply.

"By the time this ripples through the economy, each dollar loss will be multiplied seven times," said Exon.

He said more than 30,000 Nebraska farm families are being affected.

In Michigan's Upper Peninsula, 700 firefighters from 22 states are fighting a month-old forest fire at a wildlife refuge. Other crews are mopping up marsh and swamp fires — already under control — in wild areas of Wisconsin, Minnesota and elsewhere in Michigan.

The blaze at the Seney National Wildlife Refuge has blackened more than 31,000 acres, and officials said it would probably not be contained until Tuesday at the earliest.

Gusty winds blew the fire across a control line Saturday, and it destroyed 15 more acres before crews pushed it back to its original position.

A ban on open burning continues in 28 Minnesota counties and in the Quetico Provincial Park and the Thunder Bay District in Ontario.

Explosion at nuclear reservation injures one, contaminates 8-10

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — A chemical explosion at the Hanford Nuclear Reservation slightly injured one person and contaminated 8 to 10 others with radioactivity today, an Atlantic Richfield Hanford Co. spokesman said.

Authorities said they did not know whether any radioactivity was leaked to the atmosphere.

ARCO spokesman Hal Lindberg said the blast occurred in a recovery vessel. "It's a vessel that is used in recovering americium," he said. "It's a chemical explosion and ARCO is investigating it."

Lindberg added, "We don't believe there is the possibility of another explosion."

The injured employee received superficial cuts and was contaminated with radioactivity during the early morning explosion at the recovery facility, Lindberg said.

Americium is a radioactive product produced by nuclear fission. The product is recovered from the waste produced by nuclear reactors and is used as a radioactive source by industry.

Judy Friedrichs of the Energy Research and Development Administration said ERDA was in touch with ARCO officials, but refused further comment.

The injured worker was being treated at the Hanford Environmental Health Foundation, an industrial medical facility.

The other workers were being decontaminated and remained at the plant. Decontamination involves washing to remove radioactivity.

RTD strike: no new breakthrough

Drivers meet with mediator, file pay suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Striking bus drivers met with a state conciliator this morning as the Rapid Transit District strike enters its second week.

The meeting was to be the first movement by either of the two unions or the district since talks broke down late last week.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the drivers said Sunday his union would file suit today against the RTD over delayed payment for work done before their walkout began eight days ago.

Goldy Norton, a spokesman for the drivers' union, said the union would try to get all back wages in the paycheck dispute.

The 5,000 drivers and 1,000 mechanics were due to receive paychecks last Friday for work performed in the two weeks before the strike began last Monday. But the RTD said Thursday that because payroll clerks refused to cross picket lines the checks would not be ready on time.

On Friday evening, the RTD announced it would pay its workers a flat sum since it was unable to work out each employee's exact pay.

The RTD said it would pay the drivers $350 and mechanics $400. The checks can be picked up from local supervisors after 5 p.m. today or Tuesday, a spokesman said.

However, Norton said the partial payment would be about $1 million less than the drivers are due.

Negotiations between the RTD and the striking drivers and mechanics unions halted last week, and no new talks have been scheduled.

However, the United Transportation Union, representing the drivers, has been called to a meeting with state Conciliator Thomas McCarthy, who helped settle a 68-day transit strike in 1974.

There was no indication Sunday what the talks with the conciliator would entail.

Last week the strike forced 750,000 bus riders to find alternate transportation. Southern California freeways were clogged causing a significant business drop for downtown merchants.

The drivers' union last met with management negotiators in a marathon session ending early last Wednesday, with RTD bargainers agreeing to present the union's latest proposal to the RTD board of directors. But when the RTD board met later Wednesday, it rejected the union wage proposal as "exorbitant."

The union's wage and fringe benefit package, pared down at the behest of a state conciliator, is reported to be slightly under the 22 per cent over three years. The RTD is offering 19.47 per cent.

The mechanics' Amalgamated Transit Union met with RTD negotiators on Thursday, but 12 hours of talks failed to produce a settlement. The main stumbling block is an RTD proposal to reclassify 399 of the mechanics union's 1,050 members into lower paying positions.

Atom price fixing?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California officials have asked the Justice Department to investigate documents purportedly detailing the formation of an international uranium price-fixing scheme in 1972.

The existence of a price-fixing cartel could seriously hamper America's drive for energy independence and cost the U.S. consumer millions of dollars, two state officials said Saturday. It would be the first evidence of a uranium cartel mentioned by some sources as at least inevitable if not already existing, they said.

But both Dr. Ronald Doctor, a California energy commissioner, and Leonard Ross, a member of the state Public Utilities Commission, said they were uncertain whether the documents were authentic.

Ross said there was no evidence to indicate American producers were involved in the cartel, which includes Canada, South Africa, Australia and France, through its holdings in Africa.

"The major role of American companies is as victims of the cartel," Ross said, who pointed out that the Justice Department could move against the American assets of foreign firms because of the effect on domestic uranium prices.

He said, "We're not skeptical but we're in no position to observe with personal knowledge of the authenticity. We think of it seriously enough to investigate, and in view of previous reports of a cartel, these documents are worth making public."

The documents, obtained from an Australian firm by the conservationist group Friends of the Earth, include correspondence detailing cartel rules and cautions of secrecy at meetings of uranium producers from France, Canada, South Africa and Australia. The papers also detail goals of the uranium producers developed at meetings in February 1972 in Canberra and Sydney.

The state officials said the National Times in Australia published articles based on the documents earlier this month.

Doctor said the documents were received anonymously from the Friends' group, which opposes the expanded use of nuclear power. They were sent by members of the group from Australia to Jim Harding, a member of Doctor's staff who is a former official of the conservationist group.

The officials said in a letter to U.S.

Atty. Gen. Edward Levi that the cartel described in the documents apparently attempted to manipulate the world price of petroleum as the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) raised oil prices.

The letter said a uranium OPEC would make the United States as vulnerable to a cutoff in uranium supplies as it was to the Arab oil embargo.

Doctor and Ross said uranium prices had increased 700 per cent since 1972 and added that an effective uranium cartel would cost American consumers millions of dollars.

Doctor said it is up to the Justice Department to investigate the authenticity of the documents.

Harding said, "Ninety-seven or 98 per cent of the non-communist, non-U.S. uranium production is represented by this group officially called The Uranium Marketing Research Organization."

Back down some on SST pollution

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Researchers who claimed two years ago that supersonic transports (SSTs) would damage the earth's ozone layer have backed down a bit, saying today they now aren't certain their conclusions were correct.

In a report for presentation at the American Chemical Society meeting here today, Dr. William H. Duerer said uncertainties in predicting the effects of SST flights on the ozone layer have been underestimated.

The ozone layer is an ultraviolet screen that buffers earth from sun ray's that could cause skin cancer if they reach earth unfiltered.

Duerer made the report on behalf of his fellow researchers: meteorologist Hugh W. Elsaesser, atmospheric physicist Donald J. Wuebles and applied mathematician, Julius S. Chang, all of the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory.

The LLL team was the principle contributor to a study which concluded in 1974 that a fleet of 500 1971 Boeing-designed SST's, flying seven hours a day, would decrease the stratospheric ozone layer by eight to 14 per cent.

But, Duerer's report said, a lack of precise means of mathematically computing the exact chemical reaction in the ozone casts some doubt on that earlier conclusion.

In fact, the report stated, by juggling the means of measurement a bit one can show computationally that nitrogen oxides from a fleet of SST's could increase rather than decrease the ozone screen."

Pick Viking 2 landing site tonight

PASADENA (AP) — Scientists are poring over photographs that will guide them tonight when they pinpoint the area on Mars where Viking 2's lander is scheduled to touch down this week.

The Viking 2 orbiters transmitted to 80 photos to earth Sunday of the Martian Utopia region which scientists believe to be less arid than the site where Viking 1 now is conducting experiments.

The Viking team is scheduled to make a decision tonight on where probe will land.

The most recent batch of pictures were taken to help scientists tell whether the oval-shaped region contains any rocks which could damage the lander. Earlier photographs indicated, however, that the area is covered by sand at a dozen yards thick.

Officials at Jet Propulsion Laboratory have scheduled a Friday afternoon landing time.

Scientists believe there may be a greater chance of finding water at the Utopia site than in the Chryse region where Viking 1 is located.

Viking 1 sent back six photographs of its environment Sunday as one of its last chores before it enters a relatively inactive period. Scientists will put the pioneer craft on "reduced mission load" status so that they can concentrate on her sister ship's landing.

Viking 2, meanwhile, was preparing for a busy week with two days of weather observations Tuesday and Wednesday followed by a 4½-hour checkout of its systems before the lander separates from the orbiter.

Legislature: only two days to get it all done

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California legislators have two days left to tie up the loose ends of the last two years, and some major issues remain unresolved.

Prison sentencing, rent control, judges' salaries, the governor's mansion, and funding for the state coastal commission are among the topics awaiting final legislative action by midnight Tuesday.

The final few days of a session are also a time for special-interest issues to surface without warning. One has emerged in a multimillion-dollar fight between cities and insurance companies over liability for long-term occupational diseases.

But the center-stage money battle still involves the $1.5 million for the state coastal commission created in legislation already on Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s desk.

The funding, part of a $31million bill by Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy, D-San Francisco, needs a two-thirds vote of both houses — not a foregone conclusion, despite the last-minute labor-conservationist compromise that enabled the coastal bill to pass last Monday.

The Democratic governor is expected to score at least two more major victories with passage of legislation on prison sentencing and judges' salaries.

BO breakthrough?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three scientists have undertaken a mission that could someday end the battle of sprays vs. sticks and send roll-ons rolling into oblivion. They are developing a deodorant than can be processed right into some clothing.

In a report to the American Chemical Society meeting here, the researchers said they have successfully treated cotton fabrics to produce a "timed-release" reaction that continuously kills odor-causing germs.

According to the report, prepared for presentation today, cotton fibers dipped into a combination of chemicals including hydrogen peroxide were tested in as many as 50 washings.

There are products on the market now, including sweat socks, that offer built-in deodorant, but not the timed-release feature.

The paper was written by Dr. Tyrone L. Vigo, Dr. Clark Welch and Gary Danna of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Southern Regional Research Center in New Orleans.

State briefs

Outing tragedy

VALENCIA (AP) — A truck-trailer rig slammed into a station wagon carrying a group of boys on a birthday party trip to an amusement park, killing one boy and injuring two others.

California Highway Patrol officers said Eddy Esquer, 14, was thrown from the station wagon and died at the scene Sunday. They said the truck was making an unsafe lane change when it went out of control and hit the station wagon.

Woman killed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Panorama City woman has been killed when the car she was riding in crashed through a concrete block wall in North Hollywood.

Police declined Sunday to identify the woman pending notification of relatives. Officers said the car she was in lost its brakes while rounding a curve on Laurel Canyon Boulevard and crashed into the wall.

Hang glide mishap

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hospital officials say a Tujunga woman is in stable condition with a broken jaw after she apparently crashed a hang glider on Mt. Gleason.

Fire officials who rescued Amy Hemsteger, 25, on Sunday said they were not sure how the mishap had occurred but that they had found her about 100 feet below the top of the mountain.

She was taken by helicopter to Verdugo Hills Hospital.

Alien slain

IRVINDALE (AP) — A Mexican national was found shot to death in a car parked on the shoulder of the 605 Freeway, police said.

They said 34-year-old Guillermo Ruiz had been shot three times with a .45-caliber pistol found nearby. Officers said Sunday they discounted robbery as the motive since Ruiz still had $95 when found. Authorities did not have a home address for the victim.

Woman's kidnap-murder

$2,000 reward offered

LONG BEACH (AP) — With investigators still hampered by an almost total lack of leads and hard evidence, a newspaper has offered a $2,000 reward in the kidnap-execution of a Long Beach market manager's wife.

The reward offer Sunday by the Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram's "Secret Witness" program, was in addition to an unspecified reward offered by the Market Basket food store chain, employer of the slain woman's husband.

Johann Seigman, 43, and her three children were kidnaped from the family's Rosemoor home Wednesday by two gunmen. John Seigman, 50, was ordered to go to the Long Beach store he managed, empty the contents of the safe — about $8,000 — and wait at a phone booth outside the store for further instructions.

Seigman got the money from the safe and waited in the phone booth, but no call came. Investigators speculated that citizens band radio buffs who apparently had monitored the police radio frequency and descended on the area may have frightened off the kidnapers.

The three Seigman children — Cathy, 19, John Jr., 16, and Paul, 11 — were found a short time later with hands and feet bound in the family's van about a mile from the supermarket.

Mrs. Seigman's body was found Friday in a ditch in the Carson area.

She had been shot several times in the back of the head, the coroner said.

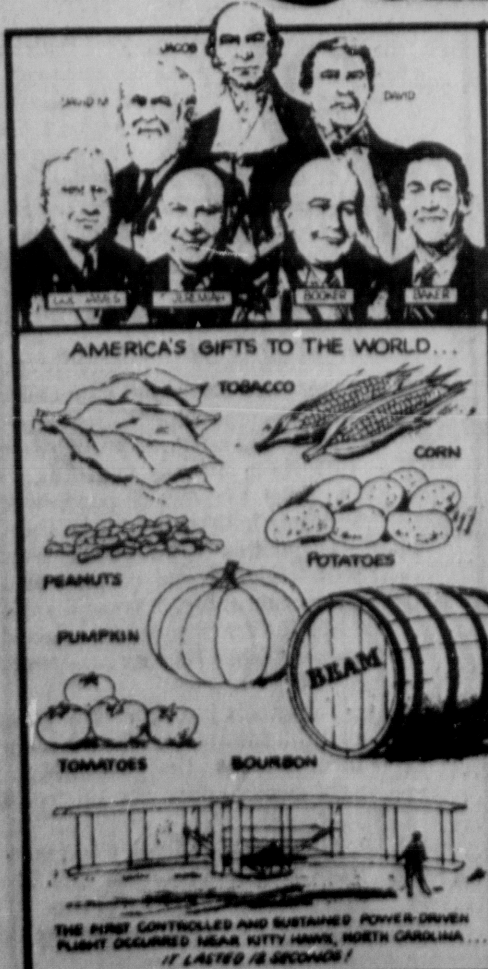

Police said later that Seigman had told them he had had a feeling he was acquainted with the older of the two kidnapers, but wasn't certain. It was theorized that Mrs. Seigman may also have recognized the kidnaper and may have been slain because of it.

Funeral services were scheduled Wednesday for Mrs. Seigman in Los Alamitos.

Orange County Sheriff's Lt. Rick Drake said, "The evidence is rather slim with no clues of any substance at all."

Whoever murdered Mrs. Seigman was "very careful," he said.

Six youths rob Denny's Restaurant, customers

Six youths, one armed with a sawed-off shotgun and another with a small-caliber pistol, robbed Denny's Restaurant and several customers shortly after midnight Sunday, POMONA police reported.

The restaurant is at 1504 Gillette Road. Hostess Billy Katherine Anderson, 50, Pomona, said the group entered, one member walked directly to the cash register laid a shotgun on the counter and demanded money or else, he said. "I'll blow you away." She opened the register and he looted it. Robert D. Grose, 22, of Cedar Pines Park, was standing at the register, preparing to pay his bill. He was robbed also.

Meanwhile, the youth armed with the pistol went to the booth occupied by Thomas Robinson, 35, of Phoenix, Ariz., and Zella E. Robinson, 35, of San Dimas, and threatened them. They also surrendered their cash.

The other four members of the group remained at the entrance while the robberies were being committed, witnesses said. All fled on foot after the holdup.

The leader, who held the shotgun, was described as a black between 15 and 16 years old. He wore a blue felt hat blue shirt and dark trousers.

Man shot at

A young Pomona man told police late Saturday night that he was shot at after stopping a car containing several youths after it ran into his car.

The victim, Jackie Lee Daniels, 21, of Pomona, said his car was struck at Karesh and Brewster avenues, but the others did not stop. He said he pursued them to Colombia Avenue and Murray Street nearby and they stopped. But as he approached, Daniels said, one of the youths in the back seat yelled at him and fired a shot at him. Then the occupants sped away. Daniels was not injured.

The youth who fired the shot was white, about 17 years old and of medium height and weight. He had blond hair and probably was armed with a .22-caliber rifle, police said.

Two escape

Two men arrested as illegal aliens at the Rancho Moreno at Pine and Euclid Avenues in CHINO Sunday broke out of a West End sheriff's van and temporarily escaped.

The two aliens, Jesus Avila, 20, and Gerardo Carmona, 19, of Mexico, who lived in Anaheim, were booked in the West End Jail this morning on charges of escape in lieu of $50,000 bail.

Deputies said the pair were discovered by deputies at the Rancho Moreno and arrested as aliens. The two were handcuffed and placed in the sheriff's van. Deputies Russ Meyers and Hector O'Campo left the van for a minute and the two suspects kicked the front seat of the van forward and escaped under the security cage. When the deputies discovered the men had escaped, a brief search began. The pair were again taken into custody a short distance away.

Deputies said this morning the charge of escape may be reduced as the two aliens had not been formally booked on the charge. The two men are being held for the Border Patrol in the West End Jail this morning.

Pomonan stabbed

A young POMONA man was stabbed in what he said was an unprovoked attack by several youths at Eighth and Rebecca streets early Sunday morning, police reported.

The victim, Michael Avila, 18, was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where he was treated for three minor stab wounds in his side and released.

Avila said he was walking at 1:30 a.m. when the group of four or five youths stopped their car and attacked him.

Suspects held

Police said three CHINO men robbed the Self-Serv Station at Riverside Street and Benson Avenue Sunday and then crashed their car into a parked car five hours later at Benson Avenue and Serene Street.

The trio, Antony Moreno, Timothy O'Farrell and Manuel Valez, all of Chino, were booked in Chino Jail on various charges.

Police said about 9:30 p.m. the three men ordered a woman clerk at the service station to hand over the cash from the register after threatening her. The attendant complied and the men fled in a car.

Police were unable to locate the vehicle until about 2:30 a.m. Sunday when residents in the area of Benson Avenue and Serene Street reported a car had just crashed into a parked car. When police arrived at the scene of the accident where two of the suspects were slightly injured, they noticed it matched the description of the robbery suspect's car.

Police said they found a balloon of heroin on Moreno. He was arrested for possession of a dangerous drug and armed robbery.

O'Farrell was arrested for reckless driving, being under the influence of a drug and investigation of robbery. Valez was arrested for being under the influence of a drug and investigation of armed robbery.

Woman held

Pomona Fire Department investigators arrested a 26-year-old Pomona woman on a variety of charges following an apartment fire Saturday on W. Orange Grove Avenue.

Fire Chief John M. Fowlkes said that Patricia A. Gilford was arrested on suspicion of arson, resisting arrest, disturbing the peace and carrying a concealed weapon.

She was booked in Pomona then transported to County-USC Medical Center in Los Angeles for a 72-hour psychiatric evaluation.

Fowlkes said fires set in Apartment 39 at 1900 W. Orange Grove Ave. Friday did an estimated $1,000 damage in living room and kitchen areas. The woman was arrested at the scene. She carried a 10-inch knife in her waistband.

Fowlkes said one week earlier the department had been called to the same apartment, occupied by Mrs. Mary Loftin, mother of Miss Gilford, and her son, Don, 18. Miss Gilford was a suspect in that fire, he said, but she escaped when she ran from the scene.

"There probably has been $8,000 damage to that apartment in fires which have been set," said Fowlkes.

Carter schedules talks before various groups

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Jimmy Carter is hoping to strengthen his support among ethnic and religious groups during two days of meetings in Atlanta, Washington and New York.

In Atlanta, the Democratic presidential nominee scheduled speeches today to Jewish leaders and at a fundraiser for the Voter Education Project, a program aimed at registering minority voters.

He also planned a conference with his advisors, a tour of his new national headquarters, a visit to a barber and a 45-minute physical examination.

He spent Sunday in Plains in what has become typical fashion: church, Sunday school, and softball.

The Carters were accompanied to church by television soap opera actress Ruth Warrick, who said her unsympathetic character, Phoebe Tyler of "All My Children," has been born again since she's come to Plains.

She had been invited by Carter's mother, who says she watches all the "soaps."

Press secretary Jody Powell, meanwhile, issued a statement criticizing President Ford's proposal of a $1.5-billion program to double the acreage of the nation's parks and recreation areas.

Ford made the proposal in a visit to Yellowstone National Park on Sunday.

Powell called it a "grandstand promise" and said, "It can only be seen as an attempt to cover up eight years of Republican mismanagement of our nation's park system."

Carter's schedule in Washington and New York on Tuesday includes a speech to the AFL-CIO general board, and meetings with the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, the New York Board of Rabbis, and the Italian-American Coalition.

The bishop's group has sharply criticized the Democratic platform's stand against a constitutional amendment to ban abortion. Carter says he is against abortion but does not favor the amendment.

U.S. Steel drops price hike

PITTSBURGH (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's largest steel maker, said today it is dropping plans for a 4.5 per cent increase in prices on sheet steel and products used primarily in autos and appliances because of "competitive factors."

The increases would have taken effect Oct. 1.

"Withdrawing. That makes it a whole new ball game," said a spokesman for one steelmaker. "It puts the heat on Bethlehem. If it keeps the increase, it will make it all quite interesting."

Bethlehem is the country's second-largest steel producer.

Armco Steel Corp., the fifth-largest steel producer, announced on Friday it would delay price increases until Jan. 2 because of "competitive developments."

National Steel Corp., the third largest, reacted quickly and said it would not follow Armco's delay. There was no reaction from any other steelmakers until U.S. Steel made its announcement today.

"In spite of high demand and full cost justification for these products, competitive factors forced this decision," U.S. Steel said in a brief announcement.

"Future price changes for these products will depend on the competitive position in the market place," U.S. Steel said.

Products on which price hikes were withdrawn include hot rolled, cold rolled and galvanized sheets as well as strip products.

The announced hikes would have added $11 per ton to one widely used sheet product and $13 to another.

The auto industry already has announced price hikes on 1977 models averaging around $300 to the retail cost of a car. And the price hikes announced by the steel industry was one of the reasons given by the auto industry.

Approximately one ton of steel will be used in each 1977 auto.

Armco said it was delaying its price hike action because its competitors were offering steel at current prices after Oct. 1.

Armco's position apparently was that it would offer the same terms to everyone.

Abel urges black officials in United Steelworkers union

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — I.W. Abel, presiding over his last United Steelworkers convention today, says the union should include blacks in its upper echelons.

Abel made his proposal Sunday as the field of contenders to succeed him narrowed, lessening the chances of a divisive split in the nation's largest industrial union.

At a news conference Sunday, Abel recommended that an additional vice presidency be created and that the duties of the secretary-treasurer be divided.

Then he said, "We happen to think that with the progress we made in our union in integration and providing equal opportunity that now is the time we should give serious consideration to fill this vice presidency with a black member."

Abel did not suggest any names. Any change in the union's structure would have to be approved by the 5,000 delegates who are here for the week-long convention representing the union's 1.4 million members. The last convention was held in 1972.

After Abel's news conference, union vice president John S. Johns officially dropped out of the race to succeed him. The union's age limit prevents Abel, 68, from running again, and now the only announced candidate is St. Louis district director Lloyd McBride, 60.

However, union dissident Edward Sadowski of Chicago is expected to announce his candidacy for the February election, and that is believed to be the principal reason for Johns' withdrawal. Johns threw his support to McBride.

The union administration had feared that rival administration slates would increase Sadowski's chances.

Sadowski, 38, director of the district that includes huge mills and plants in Chicago and Gary, Ind., has been highly critical of the union's conduct, both with the membership and opponents across the bargaining table.

Delegates at the convention are expected to debate the Experimental Negotiating Agreement, which has eliminated the possibility of strikes during major contract talks.

Any changes in USW bargaining patterns are expected to have an effect on the labor movement and economy as a whole.

Dissidents planned to call for a ceiling on dues payments, which now equal two hours' pay per month. A $10 ceiling was removed at the last convention in 1972.

The union's top officers said they expect an endorsement of Jimmy Carter to emerge from the convention, and they pledged to mobilize the union's 1.4 million members to support the national Democratic ticket.

Carter's running mate, Sen. Walter Mondale, has been invited to address the delegates on Wednesday.

USA-USSR chemical war talks 'useful'

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union announced today that consultations between them on a joint ban of the most toxic chemical weapons brought "useful" results.

A communique said the talks were a first step toward complete prohibition of chemical warfare.

Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev and then-President Richard M. Nixon agreed to the private consultations at their July 1974, Moscow meeting.

The talks, held Aug. 16-27, were not part of the 30-nation Geneva disarmament conference where East-West disagreement on how to police a chemical ban as blocked progress for seven years.

The communique said the consultations considered "questions, particularly those of a technical nature, linked to the definition of the scope of prohibition and with measures for verification of a possible agreement on chemical weapons."

'Buffy' of TV dies; drug overdose possible

OCEANSIDE (AP) — Investigators say they are not sure whether a drug overdose caused the death of Mary Annisa Jones, 18, who played the freckle-faced "Buffy" of the 1960s television show "Family Affair."

The results of an autopsy performed Sunday were not conclusive and a coroner's spokesman said further tests will be conducted.

Miss Jones' body was found Saturday afternoon in the upstairs bedroom of a friend's home. An empty envelope that apparently had contained Seconal tablets was found nearby, investigators said.

The barbiturates had been obtained with a doctor's prescription, according to Oceanside Detective John Wagner.

"Her death could possibly have been an accidental overdose," Wagner said. "There was no indication of suicide."

Miss Jones gained a wide following in the 1960s for her role in "Family Affair." The show, which starred actor Brian Keith as her uncle, is still showing in syndicated reruns.

Miss Jones had been staying at the home of a teen-age friend, Helen Hennessy.

She had been out late Friday night with friends, and went to her room after returning to the Hennessy home, investigators said. One of the friends reportedly went to her room about noon Saturday and was unable to rouse her.

Mondale is slowly easing into role as VP candidate

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Slowly, even cautiously, Walter Frederick Mondale is easing into his new role as the Democrats' vice presidential candidate and a sudden national celebrity.

As a professional politician, he is accustomed to being on stage. But until Jimmy Carter brought him onto the ticket, he was not well-known nationally, despite a short-lived presidential campaign that ended nearly two years ago.

Halfway through his first major campaign tour, which aides describe as a "shakedown trip," a metamorphosis is taking place, as jokes are polished, a pace is set, and the candidate absorbs lessons from a variety of audiences.

Before flying here for a day's rest, Mondale on Saturday issued his sharpest attack yet on the Ford administration, responding to the President's announcement of a list of issues on which he'll campaign.

The Minnesota senator said in Morton Grove, Ill., that the areas of jobs, housing, health care and education aid were Ford's failures, not his accomplishments, and boasted, "If he campaigns on that, the election's over and we have won."

On Sunday, Mondale and his staff had a chance to take stock of his initial progress on the campaign trail and to prepare for several major speeches this week, including one on foreign policy today.

Richard Moe, the Mondale campaign director who was the senator's administrative assistant for four years, said the over-all opinion is that "he's doing quite well." Most of the groups to whom he has spoken have cheered him enthusiastically, and he has encountered nothing like the angry shouts of "No!" that greeted Carter's Vietnam war pardon proposal at the American Legion convention in Seattle last week.

As the nine-day, 7,500-mile trip unfolds, there have been no major flubs apparent to those traveling with the senator. Some missed punch lines, perhaps; a few times when he has stumbled over words, such as in the impromptu talk he gave to elderly citizens in Milwaukee and said, "We want to set this country white, er, right."

"He's kind of feeling his way," said Moe, an admittedly partisan observer. "I think he feels confident with his new role, but it will take some getting used to and that will come with experience."

After each major event — a speech to Pennsylvania Democrats in Harrisburg, a stroll through a neighborhood of fish, meat and produce markets in New York and a union picnic in Ohio, — the staff gathers, often around the senator's seat on a chartered jet airplane, and evaluates the performance.

Mondale, like most candidates, has an unwritten list, so far fairly small, of jokes and stories to use as opening and closing lines in speeches or to make a point.

Mayors are given high praise, generally as "the best mayor" or "one of the best mayors" in the country.

Top honors went to Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago. When Mondale flew approximately 1,200 miles out of his way to confer with Daley, he called him "one of the truly great mayors of our time and our country."

Invariably, the speeches end with an invitation to the audience to journey to Washington for the Carter-Mondale inauguration, and the candidate tells his listeners that "(fill in the name of the local politician at his side) will pay all of your expenses out of his own pocket." It always gets a hearty laugh.

Moe said Mondale is not finding it a problem when he is asked to comment on and defend positions Carter has taken on particular issues. Nor is he having any trouble talking about "love and compassion," frequent themes in Carter's speeches.

He pokes fun at the failure of his own presidential campaign. In Harrisburg, he said that when he dropped out of the presidential race, he gave all his support to Gov. Milton Shapp, whose own presidential campaign was a short-lived affair. He often invokes the name of Hubert H. Humphrey, his political mentor and Minnesota colleague in the Senate.

With humor, he urges potential voters to register, and registered voters to vote — "Abraham Lincoln once said that those who turn their back on the fire are doomed to sit on their blisters."

He sarcastically praises the Republican party as the only party "to give us two presidents and three vice presidents in two years with only one election."

The two lines always draw laughs. Moe said the Carter-Mondale staff, headquartered in Atlanta, prepares rough drafts of most speeches, including the bits of humor injected into them, but the final work is that of the staff traveling with Mondale — many of them people who have worked for him for several years.

Before large audiences, he is showing more and more poise, although his delivery is not yet polished, and he seems relaxed.

In Eau Claire, Wis., he was at ease with a friendly crowd Friday night and abandoned his speech text to ad lib successfully. When he suggested that an auctioneer trying to sell Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz would not get enough money to pay the auction fee and a member of the audience said that Ralston Purina, the agriculture giant, would buy the secretary, Mondale shot back without the slightest pause, "They already own him."

As he speaks, he occasionally jabs an outstretched arm in the air to make a point, and his face tightens. In Portland, Ore., as he said the Republicans' tight money policies were responsible for having "laid off thousands and thousands of decent citizens of this state who need work and want it," his voice rose, his right arm shot out and upwards, and his head was almost shaking in anger.

Hurricanes reported off Pacific, Atlantic coasts

By The Associated Press
While much of the country enjoyed clear skies today, the National Weather Service reported hurricanes off both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

Hurricane Frances, with winds of 75 miles per hour, was reported early today about 700 miles east-northeast of Antigua, moving northwest at 15 miles per hour. The other hurricane in the Atlantic, Emmy, was about 850 miles southeast of Halifax, Nova Scotia. Emmy had winds of 100 m.p.h. and was moving toward the east at 10 to 15 m.p.h.

In the eastern Pacific, hurricane Iva, located well to the southwest of the Baja Peninsula, was generating ocean swells which had the potential of causing high surf along the Southern California coast.

Showers and thunderstorms were predicted from Texas through the lower Mississippi Valley, with widely scattered showers likely over northern New England.

Temperatures over the eastern end of the Great Lakes were expected to be cool, but hot readings were predicted for the northern Plains.

Seasonably warm temperatures were forecast from the northern and central Mississippi Valley through the northern and central Rockies to the Pacific Coast.

Elsewhere, temperatures were to be generally mild. High pressure centers brought mostly clear skies over a wide area of the country, reaching from the northern Appalachians into the northern and central Plains. It was rather cool in the Great Lakes region, where early morning temperatures slid into the 30s and 40s.

Scattered showers and thundershowers were reported over the southern Plains, lower Mississippi Valley and along the middle and southern Atlantic Coast. Some precipitation also fell in Maine, and isolated thundershowers dotted the northern Rockies and southern Plateau.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. ranged from 92 at Yuma, Ariz., and Needles, Calif., to 33 at Marquette County Airport in Michigan.

5 killed; no fire escape

BALDWIN, Kan. (AP) — Authorities blame the lack of a fire escape for the deaths of five persons in a three-story fraternity house at Baker University.

"The reason for the five deaths was that there was no way off that top floor," said Floyd Dibbern, Kansas state fire marshal.

Arch Carlson, chief of the Baldwin Fire Department, said the fire was drawn up to the top floor through the three-story staircase. Authorities said they believed the fire was started by a cigarette dropped on a sofa.

One of those killed had stayed behind to warn other residents and to call firemen.

An Equal Opportunity Employer

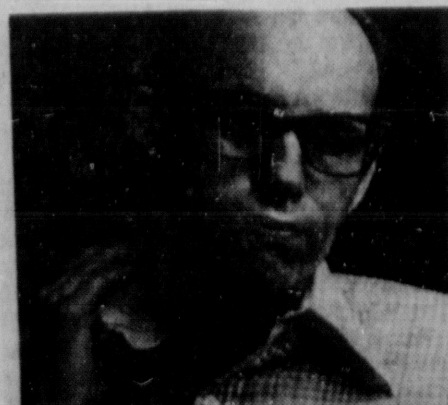

Edison has over 80 conservation tips. Here are a few.

REDUCE YOUR COST OF COOLING.

Here are 6 ways to do it.

1. Keep temperature at 78° or higher. The less difference there is between inside and outside temperatures, the lower the air conditioning cost. If you have a room air conditioner, use a thermometer to see that the room temperature drops no lower than 78°. Remember: air conditioning is not to make you cold — just comfortable.
2. Insulate your attic. If your attic isn't properly insulated, you could be using too much energy for air conditioning. (Too much energy to heat your home, too.) For information, see your local insulation contractor.
3. Air condition only rooms in use. If you have a room unit, keep all doors closed to the room you're cooling. When the children (or family pet) go outside, don't forget to close the door. Keep the windows closed, too. And draw your draperies and blinds. Outside awnings or other sun screens will also reduce your cooling needs.

4. Consider an automatic timer. Timer attachments are available that will turn off your room air conditioner when you are away from home and turn it on before you return.

5. Keep equipment clean. Clean accessible parts, but be careful not to damage them. Check filters every month and clean or replace as needed.

6. Investigate an energy-saving unit. If you're in the market for a room air conditioner, compare the Energy Efficiency Ratio rating. The higher the efficiency, the more cooling you get from the electricity you use.

Free conservation booklet. For more of Edison's ways to conserve energy, write for our free booklet, "Conservation," Edison, P.O. Box 800, Rosemead, CA 91770.

Rams best of the bunch

By Associated Press
Once again the Los Angeles Rams under Coach Chuck Knox go into the season as the class of the National Football Conference West, and this time they hope to add a spruced up offense to their other strengths.

Knox teams have won three successive divisional titles since he became head coach, with an 81 per cent victory record, and the club became noted for defense and its ground attack.

This fall, the Rams are showing some trick plays, passing on first down more and in general loosening up the offense. The big battle has been between James Harris and Ron Jaworski for the starting quarterback assignment. Harris seemed to have the edge until he broke his thumb in an exhibition game Saturday night. He is expected to miss about six weeks of action.

Yet in the quarterback department, most of the interest will center on San Francisco where Jim Plunkett returns to his home area. The Heisman Trophy winner from Stanford played out his contract at New England and the 49ers made a trade for him.

Plunkett becomes the third Stanford quarterback to direct the 49ers—preceded by Frankie Albert and John Brodie. And the club has a new coach, Monte Clark, a Southern California alum and assistant to Don Shula at Miami the past six seasons.

The NFC West gets a new member with the Seattle Seahawks joining the pro league. Jack Patera, a defensive specialist, is head coach.

Neither Atlanta nor New Orleans appears strong enough to challenge the Rams for the top spot in the division so only the 49ers are considered contenders. If Plunkett plays up to expectations, they could be tough. They are 4-1 in the preseason.

The Saints could be a surprise and for the first time in their history, they won three straight on the road albeit in the pre-season. Reserve Bobby Scott has been used at quarterback in place of Archie Manning, who still is recovering from off-season shoulder surgery.

The veteran Hank Stram took over the coaching reins and the Saints drew a top draft choice in All-America halfback Chuck Muncie from California.

Trouble-plagued Atlanta has been slow to start and its preseason losses included a 17-3 setback at the hands of the second expansion club—Tampa Bay. However, Steve Bartkowski, an outstanding rookie quarterback last season, benefits from the 1975 experience.

The Falcons traded standout defensive lineman John Zook to the St. Louis Cardinals for a reserve lineman and a first-round draft choice, but General Manager Pat Peppier maintained, "We're not writing off this year." He also said, "We're not really satisfied with anything."

Although the Rams are satisfied in general, they still experiment and still seek the NFC title which they lost in the playoff against Minnesota and Dallas the past two seasons.

John Cappelletti, who won his Heisman Trophy at Penn State, appears set for more action this year and Knox has experimented with a two fullback attack—Lawrence McCutcheon and Cappelletti in the same backfield.

A year ago the Rams, with a 12-2 regular season record, won more games than the rest of their division combined. San Francisco ended in second place with a 5-9 record and Dick Nolan was fired as coach.

However, Los Angeles was hit by a string of injuries with five regulars put out of action for the season. There are changes this year with both Charlie Cowan and Joe Scibelli retired from the offensive line. Doug France, a 260-pounder from Ohio State, and Dennis Harrah, 252, from Miami, Fla., both in their second pro years, have taken over.

Coach Clark at San Francisco faces the job of molding an offensive line where there has been talent but a lack of cohesion in recent years.

And for an additional note, the 49ers have changed their jersey color policy this season. They'll wear white at home, switching from the red of the previous seasons. And the New Orleans Saints, who wore white for four home games and black for three in 1975, will wear black for all seven home contests this time around.

OMS is tough for Rutherford

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP) — In previous appearances in the California 500, the final jewel in Indianapolis-style racing's 1976 Triple Crown, Johnny Rutherford has caught fire, crashed, blown three engines and lost a differential.

The two-time Indy 500 champion, also a winner of the other Triple Crown event at Mt. Pocono, Pa., has been a spectator for the finish of every previous California 500, although he was credited with 10th in 1972 in spite of completing only 178 of the 200 laps.

Otherwise he's been 31st twice, 27th, 26th and 17th out of 33.

"I don't know what it is about Ontario, but there's always something," moaned Rutherford. "We can just about count on something going wrong here."

Rutherford's luck has to change in Sunday's seventh annual running of the $314,000 classic—or else.

Rutherford, runnerup twice and third in points in the previous three seasons, says the driving title is his main goal.

"I want that No. 1 on my car next season," said Rutherford, who turned in the second fastest speed Sunday as practice opened for the race.

Rutherford hit 184.106 miles per hour in his McLaren, which wears the No. 2 emblematic of his second place finish in points last year to A.J. Foyt.

Bobby Unser, the 1974 Cal 500 winner and 1975 runnerup, had the fastest opening day speed, 185.594, in his Cobra.

Dodgers take East

NEW YORK (AP) — If the Los Angeles Dodgers hope to win the West, they'll have the East to thank for it.

Los Angeles raised its record against Eastern Division clubs to 47-22 Sunday, beating the New York Mets 2-1 behind the six-hit pitching of Tommy John and Reggie Smith's two-run, first inning homer. The Dodgers, just 26-34 against Western Division opponents, retain pennant hopes. They trail first-place Cincinnati by nine games in the NL West.

Smith homered off Tom Seaver and that dropped the 1975 Cy Young Award winner's record to 10-10. Neither Seaver nor Smith thought the ball was gone.

"It really carried," said Seaver. "I didn't think it was going to be a home run."

Win over Yanks gives Halos a lift

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

ANAHEIM — The Angels, having closed the books on the Yankees for this season, open up their final series of 1976 against the Detroit Tigers tonight.

From then on, it's all Western Division play.

Sunday's 5-4, 11-inning win over the New Yorkers gave the Halos a much needed lift going into the Tiger series. Since they won't have to face Mark "The Bird" Fidrych, they get another bonus although management and fans would like to see Fidrych.

At least The Bird will be in evidence since he has agreed to sign autographs from 6:40 p.m. to 7:10 p.m. each night before the game.

Tonight is Family Night. Box seat tickets go for half price and view level reserved seats for $1.

Paul Hartzell (4-4) and Ray Bare (6-6) are tonight's pitchers. Frank Tanana (14-9) or Don Kirkwood (5-10) are scheduled Tuesday against Vern Riffe (8-9) with Nolan Ryan (10-17) and Dave Roberts (12-13) going Wednesday night.

Sunday's win was one of those rare gifts which the Halos readily accepted.

Jerry Remy drew a walk from loser Tick Tidrow (4-4) to open the Angels' eleventh. Bob Jones, a late inning entrant, layed down a good bunt with a two-strike count on him moving Remy to second.

Bill Melton, in a rare start at third base, hit an easy bouncer to Graig Nettles at third. Melton's arms and legs were churning as he headed down the first base line.

The big slugger is not a fast runner, but all the arm and leg motion must have made him look like he was going much faster than he was.

Or maybe the smog got in Nettles' eyes and he thought his throw had to beat Ivory Crockett to first base.

At any rate he threw the ball way over Chris Chambliss' head and Remy scored the winning run from second base.

"We're gonna set a record for extra inning games at this rate," said manager Norm Sherry. Sherry watched his team go 15 innings.

"But today's game was a shot in the arm. We're back at the .500 mark in the last 32 games (since Sherry took over) and it's a lot easier to get something going when your at or over .500."

Elrod Hendricks' two-run homer off starter Gary Ross gave the Yanks a 2-0 lead in the second. But the Angels roared back with four off Ken Holtzman in the fourth. They were the first earned runs in 45 innings off Yankee hurling.

Remy and Tommy Davis got one-out singles. Melton doubled in a run. Terry Humphrey and Tony Solaita drew walks forcing in another run. Centerfielder Rusty Torres singled in two more.

It remained a 4-2 game until the Yankees tied it in the ninth. Nettles and pinch hitter Lou Piniella got back to back doubles for one run.

John Verhoeven replaced Sid Monge who had taken over for Ross who became ill in the fifth inning. Thurman Munson singled in the tying run. But Verhoeven got Will Randolph to hit into a double play and Fred Stanley to ground out.

However the big Dutchman was removed in the 10th after giving up three straight singles. Mickey Scott (2-0) finished up and got the win.

ANGEL ANGLES — "Verhoeven's ball is not sinking consistently and he also has been getting behind the hitters," commented Sherry.

Torres, who got only the one hit, was batting an even .200 going into the game. "But he sure gets a lot of game winners," commented Sherry.

The Yanks still are 40-21 on the road this year and 26-7 on the road against the Western Division. "They look like World Series material to me," observed Sherry. With that pitching they'll be tough."

Ron Jaworski is man on the spot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I'd feel good about being No. 1, but not this way, yet I really feel the Rams will be No. 1 regardless of who is the No. 1 quarterback."

Ron Jaworski, who's been rushed into the breach before, made his survey after learning that James Harris will be out of action from three to six weeks with a broken thumb suffered Saturday in a 31-17 victory over Buffalo.

Los Angeles has been one of the top choices to win its way to the Super Bowl and until his injury, Harris was expected to be the quarterback leading the way.

"It's a big blow to our football team," commented an unhappy Coach Chuck Knox after learning that Harris had suffered a thumb fracture when his hand whacked the

Majors announce leading firemen

Cincinnati's Rawly Eastwick and Minnesota's Bill Campbell have taken over as league leaders in competition to determine Major League Baseball's top relief pitchers in the Rollins Relief Men of the Year races for 1976.

Eastwick has 49 points, five more than San Diego's Butch Metzger, who has one victory and four saves in his last nine appearances. Ken Forsch of Houston (38), Charlie Hough of Los Angeles (37) and Atlanta's Mike Marshall (36) round out the National League's top five.

Campbell is the pacesetter in the American League with 55 points. Rollie Fingers of Oakland (47), who has recorded two victories and six saves in his last ten outings, is second, followed closely by the New York Yankees' Sparky Lyle (46). The triumvirate is followed by Kansas City's Mark Littell (38) and Detroit's John Hiller (37).

"I didn't know if it would go," said Smith. "The wind was blowing and I didn't think my high fly ball would go over the fence."

The homer, just to the left of dead center field, came on Smith's first time at bat since he injured his left hip and wrist Aug. 7 crashing into a fence in Los Angeles.

Davey Lopes led off the game with a single to center. Seaver fanned Bill Buckner, but Smith then hit the first pitch to him over the fence for his 14th homer of the season.

The Mets got their only run in the sixth on successive singles by Leon Brown, Felix Millan and John Milner. But John, 8-8, then struck out Dave Kingman and got Joe Torre on a grounder to the mound to end the threat.

In the ninth, the Mets put runners on first and second after two out, but John got Leo Foster to ground out, ending the game.

"I didn't know the game was won until the last out," said John. "I'm glad they left me in. I used mostly fastballs, curves and sliders — no changeups. The humid weather here seems to help a curve ball and a sinker. They seem to break more."

Besides their remarkable record against clubs from the East, the Dodgers are also the most successful team in one-run games, having won 30 and lost 18. The Mets, by contrast, are 21-27.

John, who struck out four and walked one, said he knew he would have to be at his best.

"Whenever you beat Tom Seaver, you're beating one of the best pitchers in baseball," he said.

"When we got two runs off Seaver in the first, I thought we might catch him on one of the days he doesn't have it. But by the fifth, sixth and seventh innings, he was really bringing it."

"It's a game of inches," said Mets Manager Joe Frazier, alluding to Smith's homer which just cleared the wall. "We're losing too many games by one run."

Seaver fanned seven and now has 194 strikeouts, tops in the National League.

helmet of a Buffalo Bill in the follow through of a pass.

It made little difference that the play gained 60 yards and a touchdown with Ron Jessie on the receiving end.

"James Harris had had a super training camp and was throwing the ball as well as he ever has," Knox continued. "Of course, this means that we'll open the season with Ron Jaworski at quarterback."

Jaworski, the third-year pro from Youngstown State, alluded to three quarters in the victory over Buffalo and had traded off duties with Harris and rookie Pat Haden during earlier preseason games as the Rams built a 5-0 record.

"I think that playing every game will help me a lot," he commented, and discounted suggestions that he'd be playing under a high degree of pressure.

"Pressure is what you do to yourself," he said. "I won't do it to myself."

Knox wasn't happy over his club's showing against Buffalo and indicated this week will see some tough practice sessions as the Rams prepare to meet San Francisco in the finale of the pre-season on Saturday night at the Coliseum.

"I'm just glad we were not playing our season opener," commented the coach.

Jaworski last year directed the Rams in the season finale as they beat Pittsburgh, after Harris suffered an arm injury. And he was the quarterback in the opening playoff game when Los Angeles whipped St. Louis.

Harris started against Dallas in the National Football Conference championship game, but gave way quickly when it was apparent he still hadn't recovered from his ailment.

This fall the two quarterback candidates had dueling but it appeared that Harris was still No. 1 as the league opener against Atlanta approached. Now it will be Jaworski against the Falcons and also at Minnesota on Sept. 19.

The Rams led Buffalo 14-10 at half-time with Jaworski working the first two quarters. Then Harris came on in the third period and his first pass was the 60-yard touchdown play.

Amer. Legion title to Santa Monica

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Santa Monica, Calif. dominated the final game in the Western Regional American Legion baseball tournament, downing Glendale, Ariz. 13-3.

The Santa Monica pitcher, Tim Leary, led his team in an impressive victory by hitting a double, two homers and batting in six runs. Leary batted .400 for the tournament. That record, along with getting 20 strikeouts, easily earned for him the Most Valuable Player award.

New Pomona C-CAP officers announced

Capt. Jack Botkin of Pomona Base, California Community Alert Patrol (C-CAP), has announced the appointment of a new slate of officers.

They are Earl Dunn, captain; Sterling Bressler, block commander; Kimsey Hall, security officer; Kay Ammerman, communications and treasurer; Renann Van Der Linden, secretary; Gary Nance, field investigator and base photographer; Robert Ammerman, chief investigator; Andrew B. Banks Sr., public relations; Marlene Dunn, recorder; and Grace Hair, officer.

Capt. Vern Jamison of the Pomona Fire Department, will speak at the C-CAP meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the education center auditorium.

According to Banks, Jamison will tell citizens how they may assist the fire department in disasters.

Banks said that since Aug. 1, base volunteers have spent 526½ hours patrolling in the city.

He said 29 block-to-block watches now are in operation in the community, and urged other neighbors to organize.

"It really cuts down residential crime," said Banks, "and it only takes about an hour to organize a neighborhood."

Appointments to meet with Bressler to organize watches may be made by calling 623-2554.

Adjustment in fuel bill

LOS ANGELES (AP) —

The Board of Water and Power commissioners says September's bimonthly electrical bill will reflect a 78-cent decrease in the fuel adjustment charge for the average customer.

But commissioners said Thursday the water adjustment charge will be up eight cents for September and October because of record water use in June and near-record consumption in July.

The drop in the electrical charges is due to the availability of low-cost hydro-electric power, according to board president Patricia Nagle.

Thousands of Valleyites sought solace from Sunday's sizzler in a variety of ways and scores more today did the same as the mercury headed past the century mark again. Raul Felix (left above) and friend Ernie Parra take it easy fishing at Cucamonga-Guasti Regional Park while Danny Jimenez, 9, and his sister, Joanna, 11, (upper right) cool off at the same park. Little Rosemary Martinez, 10, (lower right) of San Bernardino, mirrors the mood of many and just sits in a swing at the park. Recreation areas were packed again today.

Council to roll back tax rate

A 39-cent increase in the city's property tax rate, approved by the Pomona City Council in July, will be fully eliminated by the council tonight.

General agreement to roll back the increase was reached this morning during a special meeting of the council.

Each of the four members of the council present stated they would vote tonight to hold the tax rate at the previous year's level, $2.495 per $100 of assessed valuation, where it has stood since 1972-73.

Elimination of the increase was made possible by higher than expected assessed valuation increase, up in Pomona by 4.55 per cent, and use of a quarter million dollars once designated for construction of a new fire station near Pacific State Hospital.

Together with use of $254,000 in reserves, the $709,000 the tax increase would have generated was reached.

Besides, said Councilman Adrian

Wright, "at the present time there is no mood by the public to accept higher taxes."

"Being able to adopt this budget without a tax increase is an ideal situation. I'm totally in favor of it," said Mayor Ray Lepire.

Council members Georgia Grove and Benjamin Ochoa also agreed taxes should not be raised.

Despite his support, Wright seemed hesitant to eliminate the increase as he warned that city departments are being stripped of their ability to function.

"Some departments are down to the point that if someone is sick they can't operate. We're just stalling another year," said Wright.

"That's what you have to try and do every year — provide service at the lowest possible price," countered Lepire.

While the city's total tax rate will remain the same, all of the new money generated by higher assessed valuations was lumped into the city's retirement fund, with the general fund, park and recreation fund, library fund and bond rates staying the same or decreasing slightly.

Eight injured in weekend crashes

Eight persons were injured in five valley traffic accidents Saturday, Sunday and this morning.

A Pomona man was severely injured when his car unaccountably drifted off the San Bernardino Freeway near Benson Avenue, Ontario area, Saturday and crashed into the guard rail.

Three persons were injured in a two-car collision at Chino and Grove avenues, Chino area, shortly after midnight this morning.

The drivers were Jose R. Serrano, 28, of 8862 Chino Ave., Chino, and Danny C. Vanderham, 22, of 13611 Walker St., Ontario.

Serrano was reported in stable condition at Chino General Hospital this morning. Vanderham and his passenger, Marjean Vanderham, 21, were treated there and released.

Alan H. Jones, 22 of Norwalk, was injured when his car ran off the Pomona Freeway near Grand Avenue, Pomona area, Saturday and damaged three steel posts and 32 feet of center divider fence.

Jones was treated at San Dimas Community Hospital and transferred to County-USC Medical Center.

William L. Dubel, 19, of 1252 El Morado Ct., Ontario, escaped with minor injuries when his motorcycle spilled on San Bernardino Freeway west of Fourth Street, Ontario area, Sunday afternoon. He was treated at Ontario Community Hospital, transferred to San Bernardino County Hospital and later released.

'500' golf tourney, pageantry

The "little people" will be represented Saturday at a celebrity golf tournament and on Sunday at the annual California "500" race at the Ontario Motor Speedway.

Karen Anderson, 28, of Kansas City, Mo., who reigns as "Miss Little People," will arrive Friday night at Ontario International Airport.

She will then attend the celebrity "500" golf tournament Saturday at the El Prado Golf Course south of Ontario. Proceeds from that tournament will go to the Little People International for research on the crippling disease of dwarfism.

The tournament will include such celebrities as James Garner, Don Knotts, Flip Wilson, Johnny Mathis and Robert Stack.

Sunday, Miss Anderson will participate in pre-race pageantry at the speedway. This will start at 8:30 a.m. and include a short parade with several youth bands. The race begins at 11 a.m.

For the first time since the California "500" race began in 1970, there will be no parade on Euclid Avenue in Ontario to precede the race day activities.

The parade was cancelled due to the lack of marching bands, explained Helen Palmieri, executive director of the Ontario "500" Festival Association.

"Rather than having an inferior parade, we postponed it to the Los Angeles Times stock car race in November," she added.

Miss Anderson will arrive at Ontario aboard an American Airlines flight Friday at 6:50 p.m. She will be greeted by Miss Ontario Motor Speedway and members of her court.

Removing the drunk driver

Since drunken drivers are said to be responsible for at least half the nation's annual toll of traffic deaths and accidents, it would seem to make sense, if possible, to remove these menaces from the highway before they caused accidents, not after.

To see if it is, in fact, possible is the object of a $797,000 federally funded experiment currently being conducted in the District of Columbia. Since April, more than 4,000 applicants for drivers' licenses in the district have been asked to fill out a questionnaire designed to identify "problem drinkers," which includes full-fledged alcoholics as well as those with less chronic drinking habits.

Psychologists have established that certain personal situations and attitudes and health problems can be indicators of problem drinking. Thus in addition to direct questions about drinking habits, the Washington questionnaire asks such things as: "Would you describe yourself as being lonely a good deal of the time?" "With whom do you live — Alone? With friend? With relative? With wife or husband? With ex-wife or ex-husband?"

Or true or false: "Sometimes I feel very guilty." "I usually sweat at night." "I sometimes feel that I am going to pieces."

Responses to the questions, which are entirely voluntary, have been put into a computer and indicate that about 15 per cent of those questioned so far are problem drinkers, say officials.

What critics of the experiment are afraid of is that what is voluntary now could be made mandatory in the future and that license applicants identified as problem drinkers would be required to undergo some form of medical evaluation or treatment or education as a condition for obtaining a license. The people in charge of the project admit they are thinking of just that.

Now in a well-run society, not only potential alcoholics but potential criminals and anybody with any kind of life-adjustment problem would be identified early and helped before he caused difficulties for himself and others.

But psychology is still an inexact science, and this is still supposed to be a society where a person is considered innocent until proven guilty — by what he does, not by what someone thinks he might do. Those who complain that the Washington experiment is a gross invasion of privacy and evidence of creeping Big Brotherism are not being paranoid.

The fact is that we already have plenty of people who have unmistakably identified themselves as problem drinkers, yet are allowed to keep on driving. We should be spending money on developing better programs to help those who have demonstrated they have an actual problem, not worrying about those who may or may not have one in the future.

New light on the blackout

The belief that the massive, 12-hour power failure which struck New York City and parts of eight states in November 1965 resulted in a miniature "baby boom" nine months later has become part of American folklore.

"Tain't so, says a University of Chicago statistician, who has made a study of New York birth records following the blackout.

"If you look at the statistics over a one-month period — two weeks before and two weeks after the nine-month period — it's clear there was no very sharp several-day phenomenon," says Prof. Sandy Zabell.

He found, in fact, that the percentage of births during the same four-week period in all the years from 1961 through 1966 was about the same from year to year.

The baby-boom myth apparently got started because everyone, including reporters, expected it to happen. After all, the blackout was a rather romantic event and there were all those bored couples who suddenly found themselves without television.

Which raises the question: What DID people do during the Great Blackout of 1965?

People should have more voice

Dear Editor:
We are told the court has ordered bilingual education. Upon what authority?

I have a little syllogism that goes: Law is based upon precedent (common law).

Court rulings are often unprecedented.

Court rulings are often unlawful.

Some judges seem to feel my premise is wrong, but is it? Our legislative bodies have the right to write into the law changes considered desirable and proper. Judges do not have such rights. Decisions based upon whim are proving an abomination. Federal judges are attempting to run the Boston schools because of such unlawful decisions. Better they should stick to their bench and take care of the work they are supposed to be doing.

It would appear that we, the people, should have more voice in what our public servants are doing.

Amnesty defined

Dear Editor:
Candidates of both major parties are in error in their definitions of pardon and amnesty.

They are not the same — an error dating from a speech given by then Pres. Nixon. Nor does amnesty imply neither guilt nor innocence. It comes from the same Greek root as amnesia, meaning forgetting, wiping out from memory.

I believe unconditional amnesty should be given to the hundreds of thousands of soldiers discharged with less than honorable status because this stigma is often a handicap in getting jobs, loans, etc. It should also be given to thousands of deserters and draft resisters who went to prison or fled rather than commit murder in an immoral war. It should be given to peace activists who were convicted of civil disobedience in opposing the war in Vietnam.

I would even go so far as to say it ought to be given to Lt. Calley and other soldiers convicted of atrocities, for it is doubtful these men would have committed those crimes had we not made them go overseas to a rotten crusade. We older Americans who tried to force our youth to kill are ultimately to blame most of all.

In the sight of God there are probably more Americans in need of amnesty than not.

Justice Dept. unfair to FBI

WASHINGTON — We have had our brushes with the FBI which, in times past, has sometimes transgressed the law in the name of law and order. But the Justice Department is now going too far in its efforts to nail more than 30 field agents for those transgressions.

They are under investigation for allegedly breaking into private residences, tapping telephones and opening mail without legal authority.

We have established that the FBI agents, who carried out these assignments, were merely obeying orders. They were under tight discipline. In each instance, the agent received the approval of the section chief, who got his authorization from Washington.

Top FBI officials, furthermore, kept the Justice Department fully informed of these dubious and devious activities. Sources familiar with the operation say the Attorney General, himself, not only knew what the FBI was doing but gave his general authorization.

It will be interesting to see whether the Justice Department can now prosecute lowly agents for carrying out the orders of its own high muckamucks.

Footnote: The targets of most of the FBI break-ins were the Socialist Workers Party and the radical Weathermen. There is evidence that the Weathermen traveled between the United States and Cuba, that they received financial support from Fidel Castro's government and that they were responsible for several bombings in the United States. Under the law, the FBI could conduct warrantless searches and wiretaps if the action was directed against people who were a threat to national security or were connected with a foreign government.

POLITICAL DEAL? The day before Tom Kleppe resigned as small business chief to take over the Interior Department, he did a quiet, multi-million-dollar favor for friends in the oil business.

Kleppe arbitrarily overruled his staff at the Small Business Administration to allow eight large refineries to qualify for preferential treatment. The decision gives them access to $20 million in government oil.

It was a last-minute ruling that has the sour smell of politics. For one of the eight beneficiaries, Powerine Oil, a California company, is represented in Washington by the law firm of President Ford's close friend, Robert Collier. In fact, Collier was among the few friends the President invited to his swearing-in ceremony two years ago.

Powerine had become too large to qualify as a small business under the SBA standards for refineries. Therefore, it was about to lose the opportunity to purchase cheap government oil, which is set aside for small refineries.

The government receives oil from the major oil companies as a royalty for drilling on government land. This cheap royalty oil is made available to small companies to help them compete with the giants.

After Powerine outgrew its status as a small business, it tried to get the standards changed so it would still be eligible for the royalty oil. But the SBA staff recommended strongly against it. The cheap oil should be reserved, the staff urged, for firms that refined less than 30,000 barrels per day.

"To increase the capacity standard at a time when royalty oil is in limited supply," the staff cautioned, "would severely diminish the share now going to each small business to a point where (they) may lose economic effectiveness."

Nevertheless, Kleppe raised the standard to 45,000 barrels per day. By an interesting coincidence, Powerine refines 44,120 barrels per day. It looks almost as if the new standard was set to accommodate the company with the White House connection. However, seven other refineries also will benefit from the ruling.

The day after Kleppe made this multi-million-dollar adjustment in the small business standards, he resigned from the SBA to become the new Interior Secretary. Kleppe claims he made the decision simply to resolve the matter before leaving SBA. He selected the 45,000 figure, he said, as a compromise between the 30,000 his staff recommended and the 60,000 sought by the refineries.

The eight companies that will benefit from Kleppe's decision are hardly small. The smallest among them does an annual $171 million worth of business. Nor was Kleppe unaware of the friendship between the President and Collier. Our SBA sources say Kleppe had full knowledge that this decision would benefit a presidential crony.

Footnote: Heps John Moss, D-Calif., and John Dingell, D-Mich., asked the General Accounting Office to investigate Kleppe's decision. The GAO found no contact between Kleppe and oil lobbyists. But the GAO investigators noted that they didn't have access to a complete record of Kleppe's contacts.

TRICKY FERDINAND: Philipines President Ferdinand Marcos has found an ingenious means of giving the appearance of respectability to his regime.

He took an advertisement in Fortune magazine, paid well over $100,000 for it, and then quoted from it as if it were an independent assessment of how he runs his country.

In releases to the captive Philippine press, a Marcos spokesman described the ad as "one of the featured articles in Fortune." Then the spokesman quoted the ad's praise for the Philippines oil reserves, economy and government.

Just in jest

Now comes further proof that the female of the species is more deadly than the male. A group of researchers has determined that men are definitely better than women at keeping houseplants alive. And the reason why may come as somewhat of a surprise. It's not what the men do but what they don't do that makes them superior horticulturists.

Most men, according to these researchers, neglect their houseplants and as a result the plants thrive. Whereas women tend to kill their little potted beauties with an excess of tender loving care and attention. —There's a lesson of some sort there, though I'm not quite sure exactly what. Maybe it's just that women being congenital improvers should never be counted on to leave well enough alone.

State retirees are worried

By EARL G. WATERS

The sincerity of Gov. Jerry Brown's oft expressed concern for low income state workers is being put to the test with the submission of two bills for his signature. The measures, which cleared the Legislature in its closing hours, seek to remedy the sad plight of retired state employees whose pensions have been eroded by inflation.

One, SB 2048, authored by Sen. James Wedworth, chairman of the Senate Committee on Public Employment and Retirement, would provide a one time increase ranging from 3 to 8 per cent for those who retired prior to July 1974. The bill is still short of the recommendations made by the Public Employees Retirement System (PERS) which reported retirement pay had been dissipated as much as 30 per cent by inflation.

According to spokesmen for the retirees, the percentages only tell part of the story. "Some of those who retired with more than 20 years service are drawing less than $150 a month. The average is only about $250 a month. Yet, the federal government has found $400 a month to be the bare minimum needed for existence. Even those disabled, aged and blind who may never have worked receive a minimum of $279 a month."

Nevertheless, the retirees are fearful the governor may veto the bill on the grounds the state can't afford it. Inasmuch as the increases will be partially funded with money from PERS whose huge $7 billion fund was built by investments in stocks and other securities made possible by the contributions of state workers, the retirees feel the augmentations are akin to profit sharing in a mutual investment pool.

"Besides," they say, "the governor's whole pitch for flat salary increases for state employees was that he believed those in the lower income brackets were the ones hurt most by inflation. Surely those who are retired, living on fixed incomes, have suffered the most of all. If the governor's hard stand for a flat salary raise wasn't just a ploy, we don't understand how he can object to some small adjustments for the retirees."

The second bill, SB 1815 by Sen. David Roberti, aims at correcting a long standing inequity in the retirement program and also has been recommended by PERS. It would extend to all the one-half survivor pay for spouses which already has been granted to future retirees and those who retired after June 1974. The retirees point out such a provision was promised by Gov. Ronald Reagan but never fulfilled.

The spokesmen say they can't see why the governor would object to either bill in the face of his program which not only increased retirement benefits for present employees but reduced their contributions from 7 per cent to 5 per cent. "Many of us paid in at rates up to 11 per cent," they point out. "If the fund can now operate on contributions of less than half of that, those who helped make the fund possible certainly should share in the profits."

The passage of both bills are the culmination of many months of efforts by one man, Arthur Collins, a retired assistant director of the Finance Department. Now representing the Retired Public Employees Association, he pounded the legislative halls begging the need of the retirees. He received strong support from the California State Employees Association whose representatives are respected by the lawmakers. They jointly praised Senators Wedworth and Roberti for "their concern and tireless persistence in helping the retired."

Ford, Carter kickoffs set

By TERRY WADE

PB Washington Writer

WASHINGTON — Labor Day will mark the official beginning of the political season.

Jimmy Carter will begin his campaign in Georgia and President Ford will kick his off here in Washington.

Soon their faces and voices will find their way into almost every home and place of business, if they haven't already.

The various and sundry congressional races will also get into full swing and the public will be inundated with political propaganda.

Newspapers will be full of ads, and billboards will dot the roadsides proclaiming one candidate more qualified than another. The airwaves will seem to buzz with news of the races.

Doors will be opened to eager campaign workers, and some will quickly close, and ears will be tested by all sorts of campaign rhetoric. All designed to sell a most difficult product — a politician.

The latest, or at least most popular, method of selling this particular product is to deny that it is what it appears to be. One of the best lines you'll hear is, "I'm just a regular person, not a politician."

If the candidate isn't a politician what is he or she doing running for political office?

We shouldn't discourage all this hullabaloo though. We should listen with interest and have sympathy. It's more difficult to be a candidate these days.

There was a time when people would flock into town to hear a good political debate. Now everyone already lives in town (well almost everyone) and the threat of a political rally is good cause for many of them to head for the country.

If it wasn't for the mass media and newspapers there is a good chance a majority of the electorate (that's you and I) probably wouldn't even know who the candidates are.

That is sad. Not because the politicians have to work harder to get elected, but because they have to work less hard to stay elected, or at the very least they don't have to work as hard at being reelected.

At a time when government credibility is at an all time low and public officials, both elected and otherwise, aren't trusted the voter has decided not to vote.

Just a little figuring would show that the decline in public confidence in government coincides with the decline in voter interest.

There isn't anything wrong with making political candidates hustle, but there is a certain sin in making them hustle and then not voting.

Desperately in need of large-size pants

I have a neighbor whom I have tried desperately to help locate a company that carries a pair of pants large enough for him, but to no avail.

His size is 62-inch waist by 30-inch inseam. I have tried many stores which carry large sizes, but a size 52 is the largest I can find.

The pants he is wearing are full of holes and places mended by tape, as he is a widower and has no one to mend for him.

His income is low. He cannot afford a high price. Please present this to your readers. Perhaps some one could make him a pair, if I could locate a pattern. — V.S., Chino.

Many of our readers have large-size hearts. They'll help if they can. We'll be glad to forward either pants or suggestions to you.

I mailed a money order to Spiegel in Chicago for a few blouses and shell sweaters.

When six weeks elapsed without the merchandise arriving, I got a letter saying it should come on a certain date. That date was five days earlier than the day the letter came.

I had a tracer put on my money order. Spiegel had cashed it six days after I sent it.

By telephone I informed the company that I was going on vacation and no longer wanted the order. I was asked if I wanted a refund. I said yes.

Another letter came saying my merchandise would arrive soon. I wrote again asking for a refund.

To this day I have not received my order or the refund.

Can you help me get my money back? — Mrs. T.V., Chino.

We contacted the company and they got a refund in the amount of your money order, $38.53.

Some of my clothing has been lost at the cleaners. The items are a man's suit, a lady's leisure suit and a girl's red skirt.

Every time I call the cleaners I am told to call back in a couple of days.

The cleaners claim I picked up the clothing at the same time other clothing was picked up. I have a ticket for the missing clothes. — A.P., Pomona

The manager of the cleaning establishment has a different version of what happened. It goes like this:

The clothes in question were picked up a month after they were brought to the cleaners. At the same time drapes brought in later were picked up.

You called saying the first order was not picked up. The manager said he would check on it and asked you to call back in a couple of days. You did. She told you the clothes were not there and the books showed they had been taken from the store June 28, the date the drapes were picked up.

"We do not always get the ticket or signature when cleaning is picked up," she said. "Maybe it would be a good idea for the future. But we have been in business for some time and this is the first time anything like this has come up."

She said she did keep a log as a daily record showing the invoice number, the date the clothes came in, the amount of clothing and the date the articles were picked up.

Our efforts have been interesting, but not productive.

Ann Landers

Disadvantage often advantage

Dear Ann: This letter is for the 5-9 teenager who wanted information on major surgery that could make her shorter.

First of all, she must learn to be patient. I am 25 years old and six feet tall. I learned early in life to turn a "disadvantage" into an advantage. She can, too.

Here are some helpful hints:

1 — High school boys are usually immature. They like "little" girls who make them feel big and masculine. Wait till you get to college. You'll find the men there have a totally different attitude.

2 — Stand tall, a good posture accentuates a good figure. You look worse when you slump, trying to hide your height.

3 — Keep smiling. Those who make jokes at your expense are probably jealous because they aren't getting any attention.

4 — If I put on ten pounds I'm the only one who knows it. The shortsies are always on a diet. What a pleasure to eat whatever I want!

By the way, I married a man two inches shorter than myself and I couldn't be happier. He is so great for my ego — insists that I wear heels! — Height Of Happiness

Dear H of H — received a surprising number of letters from tall girls who love it up there — more evidence that it's not the altitude but the attitude that counts.

Dear Ann Landers: Will you let a teenager tell about her experience with a psychiatrist?

Nearly a year ago I was caught shoplifting. I had plenty of money in my purse and didn't need or want the articles I stole. My parents were told I needed therapy.

The following week I went to a psychiatrist. I made up my mind I wasn't going to talk. I just sat there even though I knew my folks had to pay for the sessions whether I talked or not. (It was my way of getting even.)

After three sessions of looking at the wall, the psychiatrist said, "Nobody can make you talk if you don't want to. It's up to you."

It was as if somebody had unlocked my mouth. All of a sudden I began to pour out all the feelings that were deep inside me. I've been going for five months and I know now that my whole life is going to be different. I thought I was being sent to a mean old shrink, but instead I found a friend. — All Smiles.

Dear Smiles: Thanks for the cheerful testimonial — straight from the couch. And now may I add a word to the other teens who are in therapy?

Coffee prices grounds for rage

Had dinner with a friend of mine at a local restaurant a few nights ago. After a delicious asparagus capon Princess with asparagus tips, Mornay sauce, and a tasty strawberry meringue, my friend asked if I wanted a cup of coffee to complete the meal.

"No, thanks," I replied. "End of the month and I'm a little strapped for cash. I'll just have a glass of champagne."

Earlier in the day passersby at a local market stopped to stare at an armored truck drew up and two gimlet-eyed guards stepped out, their hands resting on holstered .45s. Stockboys who had been cleared by security quickly unloaded several cases of coffee, which were hurried into the subterranean vaults of the supermarket and the timelock set. The assistant manager then ate the combination to the safe.

A few days before I had occasion to saunter through the jewelry department of I. Magnin's, gazing with respect at the $20,000 diamond rings and the $33,000 platinum watches. Imagine my astonishment to see on the lighted (and guarded) glass shelves, amid the pearl necklaces, sapphire brooches and ruby earrings, several pound cans of coffee.

SCENE: A winding mountain road in the Colombian Andes. A big semi roars through the night. Suddenly a pistol shot cracks the windshield and two cars force the truck to the side of the road. Six armed men surround the truck. The masked leader shouts to the driver, "Your coffee or your life!"

These soporific episodes add up to one thing: the price of coffee has jumped over the moon. Any day now Viking I is going to report finding Brazilian coffee on Mars. It is reliably reported that several Iranian sheiks are dickering to trade their oil wells for coffee ranches in South America.

In June of 1975, the coffee beans from the Colombian Andes slopes, the most sought-after "soft" coffee in the world, were quoted at 65 cents a pound in the New York market. (The report didn't specify WHICH market.) A year later the price was $1.96 a pound. This is some kind of a mark up. The bum on the street now asks you for "85 cents for a cup of coffee."

Dr. Lamb

Laxatives aren't recommended

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am retired, past 80 and lead a sedentary life. I used to walk a lot, but I have painful heel spurs and can't exercise much.

My most depressing trouble is chronic constipation. I had a barium enema in 1970 and absolutely nothing was wrong then. Last September I had complete X-rays and the report said there were a few diverticula in the colon, no sign of tumor, and the stomach showed a small hiatal hernia but no ulcer or tumor.

My constipation is worse now than it was then. My family doctor who I visit periodically prescribed all kinds of laxatives, such as Doxidan twice a day, and if no help after two or three days to take an enema.

I have not had a normal natural bowel movement for some time. Enemas are not very comfortable or pleasant. In fact, they are even painful at times and I hate to live with them for the rest of my days.

Your comments will be deeply appreciated.

DEAR READER — Your inactivity may contribute to your constipation. I think you should go to an orthopedic doctor and try again to get some help for your heel spurs. Corrective shoes and foot pads may help. In some cases removal of the spur is indicated, but not always.

You can improve your exercise though by getting a home stationary bicycle. You need to develop a mild calisthenic program you can do at home, such as sit-ups.

Both hiatal hernia (hernia of a small part of the stomach) and diverticula (pockets of the colon) are common in the older 50 age group. The diverticula are often associated with constipation. I feel you should direct your biggest efforts toward correcting your bowel problem.

To that end I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-2, Irritable or Spastic Colon and Constipation. It will tell you how to train your bowel so you won't have so much difficulty. You need to be sure you have enough cereal bulk in your diet and I would suggest a cup of All-Bran or Bran Buds every day for this purpose.

Doxidan is a gentle stool softener and mild stimulant to intestinal contractions. It is frequently used in older people who have these problems. However, I am not enthusiastic about any laxatives and prefer only the bulk-forming ones. You can also get the bulk formation effect from the cereal fiber in the bran I recommended.

You need to do more than just eat bran though. The Health Letter will give you further information about drinking fluids and taking advantage of natural reflex responses. Others who want this information can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for The Health Letter. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Enemas and laxatives lead to spastic colon. If you empty out the colon too soon it will be a while before it is full and normal bowel habits are restored. Fortunately the laxative you are taking is mild but I think it is far better to develop proper eating habits and proper bowel habits so you can avoid laxatives altogether. In general, the chemical laxatives do more harm than good for the public and often result in unhealthy habits that lead to chronic bowel problems and may contribute to tuberculosis.

With coffee now slightly more expensive than a good California champagne, many of us will be happily making the switch from the after dinner demi-tasse to a glass of sparkling burgundy.

I don't know, however, if I am quite ready to face Bollinger Brut '55 with my morning bacon and eggs.

Industry experts watched with growing concern marketing studies showing many young adults now prefer to drink cola or other soft drinks instead of coffee. Coffee is becoming an old people's drink, with a shrinking consumer market. Kids just coming up in the world can no more buy coffee regularly than they can buy a house or a new car. Most of them would rather blow tea than drink coffee.

Origin of mugwump

It has been explained repeatedly that a mugwump, ho, is a political animal that sits on a fence with his mug on one side and his wump on the other. But a client wants to know what mugwump meant originally. That's the word the Indians up around Massachusetts used for "captain." It didn't take on the definition of "an independent in politics" until it was so applied to those disconsolate voters who bolted the Republican Party in 1884. Today, according to the pollsters, the mugwumps outnumber the Republicans.

It was old Ed Howe who first noted, "News is information that makes a woman say, 'For Heaven's sake!'" Far more married than single women suffer overmuch from that melancholia called "the blues." Statistically, your chances of never catching a cold improve considerably, if you don't go to work on Mondays.

Q. "Who was Peter Cartwright?"

A. An early Methodist pioneer. Among the several things for which he became noted was his observation when a highly religious lady in his church screamed, "If I had one more feather in the wing of my faith, I would fly away to my Savior!" Said Cartwright: "Stick in the other feather, Lord, and let her go."

The medical experts still insist it's better to nap before meals than after. Maybe so. But what's wrong with both before and after? Personally, I also like to take a little nap right before bedtime.

BAD WHISKEY

When a man became sick during the Prohibition days, he was quite likely to explain by saying, "I got some bad whiskey." And he probably wasn't wrong. Much booze, now as then, is distilled through old car radiators. It oftentimes collects a considerable amount of lead and other poisons. Maybe a little doesn't kill, but a lot does. And countless graves nationwide contain the remains of citizens nevertheless dead of liquor lead even though their tombstones don't read: "... of bad whiskey."

The increased activity of the thyroid gland after the third month is what makes expectant women perspire more. Realize this isn't the sort of observation you'd want to engrave on wedding invitations. But it's noteworthy nonetheless, I think. Don't you?

If a single woman goes with him run about two to three months, chances she'll marry him an eligible man for five, says our Love and War man.

About this-that

In the 17th century, to be lefthanded was enough to be considered clumsy, and the French word for left remains "gauche," or awkward.

In the last two generations, Americans have grown one-and-a-half-inches, and now at an average height of 5 feet 8.2 inches, they continue to be the world's tallest people except for the Watusi and Dinkas in East Africa.

Joyce Brothers Teenage alcoholic

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Is it possible for a teenager to be an alcoholic? Our 16-year-old daughter began sneaking drinks two years ago when we had friends in for parties. My husband noticed it first, but we thought nothing of it until we became aware that the liquor supply was disappearing. Our son intimated that his younger sister was the guilty one. She finally admitted it and now it's out in the open. She drinks in her room even though we forbid it, and she's often come home from dates drunk. What can we do? — O.N.

Dear O.N.: In answer to your first question, it is not only possible for teenagers to be alcoholics, but it is a major problem. Young people have moved from a wide range of other drugs and many are now using alcohol. Arrests of young people for drunken driving have skyrocketed since some states lowered the drinking age from 21. Unfortunately, parents often are so relieved that their children are not on harder drugs that they ignore their drinking habits. Many times, the children are merely following the behavior and drinking patterns of their parents.

I think the first thing I'd do if I were you is to provide her with as much reliable information as possible on the subject of alcohol. She may reject it, but if you leave it in her room, she may read it behind closed doors.

Find out if there's a chapter of Alcoholics Anonymous in your area that has meetings for the young. If they don't, they can still be helpful, as they'll be able to suggest literature especially suitable for the teenager. The sooner you take action, the better. Your daughter needs help.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I recently remarried for the third time and have three teenaged children from my previous marriages. I think my husband is trying hard to make my two daughters and son like him and he seems to want to prove that he's "with it." He does this by intimating that our sex life is super or that he's a sexual athlete. He also tells off-color stories and tries to include them in conversations that I feel are personal. He says kids today don't care about privacy and that they respect honesty and openness in adults. Am I just being a prude? — A.R.

Dear A.R.: Almost all children, no matter how liberal their views on sex, want to keep a healthy distance from their parents as far as sex is concerned. This is as it should be. Young people need to establish their own identity. To do this they must separate themselves from the strong emotional involvement with their parents. Parents who tell risque jokes and give intimate details of their sex life make it very difficult for their children.

There is an important reason why children have been and want to be unaware of their parents' sex life. The separation of generations by language, by dress, and by other barriers that the young deliberately erect help to protect both the child and the adult from incestuous feelings that might arise.

It is important for a child to know that his sexual feelings and activities are "private," as are those of his parents.

Wedding vows said

Newly wed Mr. and Mrs. Myron G. Chapman will establish a home in Claremont following their recent marriage at the Friends Meeting House in Claremont.

The former Karen R. Shupe is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lenz of Pomona. The bridegroom is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Grover Chapman of San Antonio, Texas.

Honor attendant was Carol Bennett of Upland. Officiating clergy were Drs. Charlotte and Howard Clinebell, Dr. Mary Ellen Kilsby and Dr. John Cobb Jr., all of Claremont.

The bride teaches at Condit School in Claremont and the groom is director of health services at the Claremont Colleges.

Mt. Rushmore carver says bicentennial a flop

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — The man who carved Mt. Rushmore into an eternal shrine to the American presidency says America's 200th birthday party is a flop.

"I don't think it's been a great 200th birthday celebration," said sculptor Lincoln Borglum. "It will soon be all gone and forgotten." But he has an idea to make American history everlasting.

Borglum and his late father, Gutzon Borglum, completed the Mt. Rushmore project in 1941 after 14 years of working off and on.

But, fears Borglum, the historic shrine will someday be as mysterious to Americans as the Sphinx of Egypt.

Carved into the side of Mt. Rushmore are the busts of Presidents Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt.

Perhaps 5,000 years from now people will stare at the huge art work and wonder "Who were those men and why were their heads put there?"

"The problem is that you have four faces that will last perhaps a million years. Now you and I know who the heads are but, say 5,000 years from now, who will know who they were or why they were put there? We should not leave something up there that's going to be like the heads on Easter Island, the Sphinx or the pyramids," he said.

Borglum says it "would cost less than $2 million to leave records of our civilization that would last longer than the heads. I don't care about doing it myself but I would like to see it done. It would mean something to future generations. I can't think of anything more important than to leave a record of the 200 years and how our civilization developed."

Borglum believes this bicentennial year would be a good time to renew construction of the Hall of Records, a room that was to be built in a canyon near the heads on the mountain.

The Hall of Records project was actually started before the Rushmore work ended in 1941, a few months before the start of World War II.

Borglum, who moved to a country home in the Texas Lower Rio Grande Valley about eight years ago, says the Hall of Records project would cost about $2 million.

Inside the Hall of Records, as originally planned by Borglum's father, would be the history of the United States in drawings and writings. There would be room in the hall, which was planned to be 80 feet by 100 feet and 30 feet high, for historical data and the busts of famous Americans.

Borglum believes that start of the construction of the Hall of Records would be a greater way to celebrate the bicentennial than any other celebration now planned.

There is no plan to construct a lasting monument to the bicentennial, Borglum said.

Construction of the Mt. Rushmore shrine cost about $60,000 and the project took about 14 years to complete, but Borglum said because of delays in getting federal appropriations, the actual working time was about six years.

Borglum said his father wanted to carve more mountains and wanted to include some famous American women in his mountain side carvings, but he died in March 1941, several months before work on the mountain came to a halt.

There is no room on Mt. Rushmore for adding facts. "We're fortunate about that, I think," Borglum said, commenting that he had not been pleased by suggestions that the heads of more recent American leaders be added to the carvings.

Borglum, who is still an active sculptor co-authored a recently published book, "Borglum's Unfinished Dream: Mt. Rushmore." The "unfinished dream" in the title refers to the Hall of Records project, he said.

Firm fined for marsh destruction

PITTSBURG (AP) — A fine of $500 has been imposed on the Dow Chemical Co. for destroying a marsh next to the big Dow plant at Pittsburg.

The penalty was levied Monday by Judge Gerald Belletti of Delta-Pittsburg Justice Court after the corporation pleaded guilty to violating a regulation that requires an agreement with the state Fish and Game Department before a stream is altered.

Dow was charged with diverting Kirker Creek, then bulldozing dirt into the streambed and the marsh bordering it.

Dad's truck crushes tot

SIMI VALLEY (AP) — An 11-month-old Simi Valley boy has been crushed to death by his family's pickup truck as his father backed the vehicle up to wash it.

Pronounced dead at his home Sunday was Cord Critchfield after his father, Jeff, brought the tot outside to watch him while washing the truck in the back yard.

"He started backing up the truck to wash it," said California Highway Patrol spokesman Al Goldberg, "and the little boy crawled behind the truck."
